

NIEeS Announcement of Opportunity:

The National Institute for Environmental eScience (NIEeS) invites applicants to propose working groups to explore how particular environmental science topics can benefit from eScience and grid technologies. The working groups will initially be funded for up to six months.

NIEeS continues to fund events which explore the benefits of eScience technologies for scientists. We welcome suggestions for possible events, which could include working-group workshops or dissemination events.

Applicants from academia and other organisations are welcome.

Closing date for applications: 16th March 2007. Further details and an application form for working group proposals can be found at www.niees.ac.uk/working_group_proposal/index.shtml

For enquiries please contact the deputy director, stuart@niees.ac.uk